

President Will Start Boulder Dam Turbines, Power Experts Gather

Delegates To Third World Power Conference Expect Major Pronouncement From President on the Administration Policies.

DEPRESSION OVER
Projects A New Deal "Prosperity" and State's Rights Issue in Charlotte, N. C., Address.

Washington, Sept. 11 (AP).—A huge assembly of power experts from many nations gathered today to hear a message from President Roosevelt and watch him throw a switch starting the giant turbines of the Boulder Dam—highest dam in the world.

Some of the 3,000 delegates to the Third World Power Conference expected a major pronouncement from Mr. Roosevelt on the administration's power policies.

The President, however, had not announced the subject of his talk, scheduled for late this afternoon before a joint meeting of the conference and the second congress on large dams.

The switch was set up on the stage of Constitution hall before the engineers, scientists and industrialists from 32 nations. Wires connected it with the generators in Boulder City, Nev.

Boulder Dam, across the Colorado river in Nevada and Arizona, was completed by contractors and formerly turned over to the government last February 29. The structure, 727 feet high, backs up water in the greatest man-made lake on earth.

Work started March 11, 1931, and the dam construction cost $54,500,000. The whole federal project, including an all-American canal in Imperial Valley, Calif., is to cost $165,000,000. A $220,000,000 aqueduct to southern California also is under way.

Besides Mr. Roosevelt's speech, ceremonies at the dam also were to be carried on a nation-wide radio network today.

Last night the power conference had a banquet in the Union railway station waiting room—adjoining it early today to the accompaniment of waltz tunes.

Served there—because no other Washington establishment was big enough—the seven-course dinner disappeared while 40 trains arrived and departed 100 feet from the speaker's rostrum.

Just as Secretary Ickes began speaking the "Sportsman" pulled in from St. Louis with a loud wheezing of air brakes and while Leon Perrier of France was greeting the delegates the milk train got in from Philadelphia.

Mingled with the cries of red caps were the strains of a band.

Secretary Ickes called for cheap electric power as the means to "a higher standard of living and advancing civilization."

Viscount Falmouth of England asked world peace, saying "there hangs on all nations a sense of fear, uncertainty and dread—like a horrible fog."

Turns "New Historic Corner."
Aboard Roosevelt train enroute to Washington, Sept. 11 (AP).—President Roosevelt hurried back to Washington today to fill another speaking engagement after projecting a new deal "prosperity" and state's rights issue before a rain-drenched outdoor audience in Charlotte, N. C.

Dried out from two cloudbursts that soaked him to his skin as he drove in an open car to the Charlotte Stadium, the touring chief executive arranged to address the world power conference late today in Constitutional Hall near the White House.

Enroute to the capital by a special train, he was greeted by pushing and shouting after-dark crowds last night at the three North Carolina cities of Salisbury, Highpoint and Greensboro.

Brief rear platform talks were made in which he spoke of his "wonderful" two days in Tennessee and North Carolina. He also waved to groups at Lexington and Thomasville, N. C.

In his speech at the seven-state "Great Pastures" rally at Charlotte yesterday, the President posed several subjects which his reelection managers have said would figure prominently in the presidential campaign.

He spoke of having turned that "new historic corner," the depression of a "definite upturn" in business, of "better conditions" on the farm and in factories and homes; of providing business conditions and of record-breaking low interest rates on borrowing.

All of this, he asserted with rain drops still dripping from his brow, had been attained without endangering "individual liberties" or invading the "inherent rights" of the sovereign states.

He did not refer to the supreme court by name, but he drew applause as he spoke highly of the NRA and AAA, and added:

"It was obvious of course, because of the economic crisis of the entire country that no group of individuals and no individual states could by themselves, take the action necessary to restore the purchasing power of the nation."

"Only the federal government could accomplish that," he emphasized.

Milk Industry Hears Proposal for Union

By the Associated Press.

The milk industry heard a proposal for unionization of dairymen today while farmer delegates prepared to leave their homes in trucks, busses and automobiles for the state's hearing on milk prices in Albany tomorrow.

Paul J. Woodward, Sandy Creek dairyman, who is chairman of a milk holiday committee, said at Watertown: "I am not certain yet how we would go about unionization but apparently something must be done, and quickly, to organize the farmers so that they can enforce their demands. Unions may be the solution to the problem."

Meanwhile, the Rev. C. H. MacVey, of Canton, charged at a meeting in Syracuse of central New York cooperatives that an attempt would be made to pack the Albany dairymen to demand detention of the milk control law. The meeting was continued in Albany today.

Landon Speeds East Confident Maine Will Show Victory

By HUGH A. WAGNON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Aboard Landon train en route to Maine, Sept. 11 (AP).—Expressing confidence of victory, Gov. Alf M. Landon sped eastward today on his second campaign drive for the great blocks of presidential electoral votes that lie between Illinois and Maine.

"I am very glad to be on my way to contribute to the notable campaign which I believe will end in the repudiation of the present national administration by the voters of Maine next Monday," the Republican nominee told newsmen.

"I am confident that Maine, as in the years past, will lead the way to a republican victory in the nation and a restoration of good government at Washington."

After boarding his special train for Portland, Maine, where Saturday he will deliver his fifth major speech of the campaign, Landon walked into the press car ahead of his private coach and chatted with newsmen.

His address at Portland will be on "government and business," a topic he discussed briefly in his acceptance address at Topeka July 23, in which he said:

"The time has come to unshackle initiative and free the spirit of American enterprise. . . . We must be freed from excessive governmental intimidation and hostility."

Speech Has "The Punch"
Gifford Pinchot, former governor of Pennsylvania, who conferred with Landon over the luncheon table yesterday, told reporters the Portland speech "has the punch."

After an overnight trip from Topeka into Illinois, Landon planned a four-hour visit in Chicago, including luncheon at the home of George F. Harding, national committeeman, and conference with Republican leaders before resuming his eastward drive.

The governor's party included Lacy Haines, close friend and political adviser of Landon, and William R. Castle, former under-secretary of state, who conferred with the nominee on international relations.

Castle told newsmen "a world conference of kings and dictators, reported under consideration by President Roosevelt, would be silly and ridiculous."

"I don't believe the President will call it," he said. "I think the report was just a trial balloon."

"Such a conference would be the absolute negation of democratic ideals. It seems to me. It is the people of a country, not the ruler, that keeps a country out of war."

(Administration spokesmen have denied such a conference was contemplated.)

Four rear platform appearances in Indiana, at Gary, Valparaiso, Plymouth, and Fort Wayne, were scheduled late in the day. They opened a series of more than a score of such talks listed in Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine, and on the return through New York and Illinois. Landon made a brief platform appearance before a small crowd last night in Kansas City.

Two Brokenmen Killed.
Chicago, Sept. 11 (AP).—Two brokenmen were killed and a third fatally injured today when the caboose in which they rode was crushed between a locomotive and a string of 15 flat cars on a siding of the New York, Chicago and St. Louis (Nickel Plate) Railroad in the east side yards.

New Maxwell Trial.
Staunton, Va., Sept. 11 (AP).—The Virginia supreme court of appeals today granted a new trial to Edith Maxwell, under a 25-year sentence for the murder of her father in Wise county in 1935.

The court, however, refused to grant bail to the young woman who has been in jail since her arrest July 21, 1935.

Frank Forman, founder of the Up-To-Date Company in Kingston and at one time the owner of a chain of women's apparel stores in Syracuse, Kingston, Poughkeepsie, Newburgh, and Albany, died this morning in New York city after a long illness. Mr. Forman at one time was one of the largest real estate operators in the city of Kingston and was one of the firmest believers in the future of Kingston. While he had been in New York city for some time past he still retained Kingston as his home and made frequent visits here.

In 1901 Mr. Forman came to Kingston and established the Up-To-Date Cloak and Suit Company on Wall street. The site of his first venture in business was where Candyland is now located. This business prospered and grew and later he purchased the property at 303 Wall street, where the Up-To-Date Company store is now located. Mr. Forman improved the property and expanded the store as his business grew. He kept pace with growing conditions and from time to time remodeled and improved the store to keep pace with the modern trend of business. So successful was he in his chosen line of business that from the beginning in Kingston he extended his operations and established stores in some of the larger cities of the state. At one time he conducted stores in five cities of the state but later he turned his attention more to real estate operations and disposed of his stores, retaining only the stores in Kingston and Poughkeepsie at the time of his death.

Turns To Real Estate
Several years ago his keen business ability and his faith in Kingston real estate caused him to turn from the active management of his stores and enter the real estate field.

Mr. Forman purchased many of the most valuable properties in the business section and at various times during his real estate operations was owner of some of the larger commercial properties. When he began his real estate operations many people of the city believed the prices which were paid by him for real estate were exorbitant but Mr. Forman had a keen insight and saw the value of the properties rise to heights which were unbelievable to many.

At the time of his death he was the owner of a number of business properties although during his real estate career he had disposed of many through resale. A number of the business places now on Wall street owe their existence to the keen mind of Mr. Forman who never once lost faith in Kingston and its future.

Six or seven years ago Mr. Forman moved to New York but maintained his Kingston home and was a frequent visitor here so long as his health permitted. After entering the real estate field Mr. Forman relinquished the active management of his store here to Joseph L. Kramer, who for a number of years had been manager.

Mr. Forman is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ida Epstein Forman; one son, Attorney Joseph Forman of this city; one daughter, Mrs. Oscar Lieberman of New York city and two grandchildren, Joseph, Jr., and Janice Holene.

BLIND WOMAN FALLS FOUR STORIES; SAVED BY PASSERBY
New York, Sept. 11 (AP).—A blind woman was saved from death today by a passerby who interposed his body to break her fall when she tumbled from a fourth floor window.

Frank Jelava, 42, succeeded in partially breaking the fall of Mrs. Margaret Ludloff, 77, who was taken to a hospital in a critical condition. Jelava suffered only slight contusions of the left hip.

Mrs. Ludloff, in the habit of sitting near the window, cringing for the chair this morning, stumbled and plunged out the window.

YOUNG ROOSEVELT WANTS TO ELECT ALBANY DEMOCRATS
Boston, Sept. 11 (AP).—James Roosevelt, eldest son of the President, plunged today into the task of visiting virtually every city and town in Massachusetts—determined, he said, to elect "the Democratic ticket from top to bottom."

Roosevelt, an insurance man, is a registered voter in Brookline, Boston suburb.

Roosevelt said he would conduct open forums in his trips about the state, starting on Cape Cod, and would seek to answer any "fair" question concerning the national administration.

French Communists to Strong Demonstration Seize Auto Factory By Hitler Against the To Try an "Experiment" Invasion of Bolshevism

"Industrial Sovietization" Group Want to Operate Renault Plant for Themselves; Non-Union Workers Ask Protection.

OTHER DISORDERS

4,000,000 War Veterans Favor Premier Leon Blum's "Hands Off" Spanish Policy.

By EDWARD KENNEDY.
Associated Press Foreign Staff.

Paris, Sept. 11 (AP).—Leftist French workers planned to seize the Renault automobile factory outside Paris, the government was told today, for "an experiment" in "industrial Sovietization."

A delegation representing 1,500 foremen and technicians in the Renault works, one of the largest industrial plants in France, gave the information to Premier Leon Blum in his office.

The group told Blum the movement was started by Communist employees. They declared they had received information the Extremists were planning to take over the plant by force and operate it for themselves temporarily.

The delegation asked the premier for a government guarantee that non-union employees would be assured of the right to work in the event the "experiment" materialized.

The Renault plant, located at Billancourt, a suburb of Paris, employs 34,000 workers to produce army equipment as well as motor vehicles of all kinds.

Fresh labor troubles, linked to workers' demands for reconsideration of France's non-intervention policy in the Spanish Civil War, brought new worries to cabinet officials.

Minister of the Interior Roger Salengro left the capital hurriedly for Lille in an effort to halt the spread of occupational strikes in textile establishments.

Striking bus drivers in Paris and the suburbs took control of garages. Building workers at Metz and mill workers at Epinal declared walkouts.

Farmers in Alsace formed a militant society to prevent the occupation of their land by hired hands.

The government's neutrality policy, meanwhile, received support from 4,000,000 members of the National Confederation of War Veterans.

The veterans declared full agreement with the "hands off" policy of the Blum government, showing their backing against the 5,000,000 members of the general confederation of labor which has demanded reconsideration of the neutrality attitude.

A rift in the labor ranks became apparent when the Paris railway union protested the action of metal workers in seeking to obtain revision of the neutrality policy before obtaining official approval from the general confederation.

Catholic war veterans assembled at Lourdes for a gigantic peace demonstration in the famous grotto and basilica at the shrine of Bernadette Soubirous who reported to have seen an apparition of the Virgin there in 1858.

Police Lieut. Carl Ekman said Gen. Dawes asked for police protection until after the wedding tomorrow of his adopted daughter, Virginia, to Richard Thompson Cragg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl J. Cragg of Evanston.

Ivan Heiland, the chauffeur, described the loiterer as a young, slight, dark man.

Warplane and Other Military Craft Displayed at Congress of German Departmental Leaders Who Hammer Soviet Policies.

FASCISTS WELCOMED

Blames Russian System for Family Destruction, Wholesale Juvenile Criminality.

By WADE WERNER
(Copyright, 1936, By Associated Press)

Nurnberg, Germany, Sept. 11—The throbbing motors of 400 warplanes gave military background today to Nazi Germany's anti-Soviet campaign—a crusade which observers believed was approaching announcement of practical steps against Bolshevism.

The planes, trimotored bombers flying in formation, pursuit planes and craft of other types, awakened delegates and visitors in this Nazi convention city at dawn.

At the congress itself, German departmental leaders took up the anti-Bolshevik campaign where Adolf Hitler, Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, Dr. Alfred Rosenberg and Rudolf Hess had left off.

Hermann Reischle, Nazi agricultural leader, in a speech contrasted "the ruthless exploitation of Soviet Russia peasants for the benefit of a clique of Jewish parasites" with what he said were the German Fuehrer's constructive efforts on behalf of German farmers.

Another departmental leader, Erich Hilgenfeldt, painted a bright picture of social welfare work in Germany, particularly in connection with the care of mothers and children.

He drew a black picture of family destruction and wholesale juvenile vagrancy and criminality which, he said, the Soviet system had produced in Russia.

Definite Steps Imminent
The anti-Bolshevik campaign appeared to be leading to systematic, to practical action that it was believed widely some definite step was imminent. Some persons have suggested this might take the form of withdrawal of the German ambassador to Moscow.

The warplanes, coming from various points in Germany, flew so low they rattled window panes and brought citizens and delegates to streets, windows and house-tops.

In some quarters, Germany and Italy were linked in the predicted crusade toward the establishment of an international bloc opposing Russian governmental practices.

The presence of a fascist delegation from Italy at the national socialist meeting and the cordial reception given the visitors was responsible for the forecast of an alliance between Berlin and Rome.

Particular importance was attached to a statement by Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, Hitler's propaganda minister, warning "sides must be taken for or against (Bolshevism) with full acceptance of the consequences."

Goebbels signalled the possible opening of a crusade against Jewry and Bolshevism in a denunciatory speech during a convocation of Nazi labor corps recruits.

Appeals for Action
"May the world act before it is too late," he cried to climax his description of bolshevism as "an infernal world pest which must be rooted out."

The dynamic little propaganda minister charmed "the Jew created bolshevism and bears it forward." "Every inner bolshevik struggle is a family fight among Jews," Goebbels declared.

"Bolshevism could be born only in the brains of Jews and he who fraternizes with bolshevism is sure to die from it."

Goebbels called Hitler "A true knight without fear or fault," and asserted Der Fuehrer is carrying out "an historic world mission."

Delegates to the annual party convention eagerly awaited the prospective crusade announcement as they assembled for a rally of 150,000 political organizers on Zeppelinfeld Meadow.

The Reichs chancellor was expected to address the party organizers upon whom he depends to keep his aims and purposes before the people throughout Germany.

2,000 Government Troops Reported Killed at Mallorca

By ELMER W. PETERSON.
(Copyright, 1936, By Associated Press)

Burgos, Spain, Sept. 11—The rebel "nationalist" Junta announced today that more than 2,000 Spanish government troops had been killed in an attack on the island of Mallorca.

The attack occurred September 4, the Junta announced.

A government column of 6,000 men participated, and the insurgents said only about 4,000 were able to retreat by ship to Valencia.

A dozen cannon, 21 machine guns, 500,000 cartridges and 200 hand grenades were reported taken by the rebels.

The newspaper Diario de Burgos, at the same time, said a "final" attack on San Sebastian, in the north, was imminent and that negotiations for surrender of that city had failed because the government defenders demanded unolested removal of "red" militiamen to Bilbao to aid the defense there.

Rebel forces west of Madrid surged forward today in a new drive against the Spanish capital, staff commanders at provisional government headquarters announced.

The fascists were using the town of Mombeltran, in the Sierra de Gredos mountains, as a base for their operations, they reported.

Three columns from both the northern and southern armies were joined, the officers reported, after capture of the little village of La Parra by the southern troops.

An official announcement asserted 60 government militiamen were killed in the fighting which preceded the contact between the two armies.

Rebel bullets killed 250 government soldiers during engagements yesterday in the valley of the Tietar river, the statement declared. Captains and ammunition was claimed.

Madrid, Sept. 11 (AP).—Compromise or truce with Fascist rebels is out of the question, officials of the Socialist Spanish government declared today.

They denied reports the government and the rebels were attempting to negotiate peace in the bloody civil war which began July 17 with a Fascist uprising in Spanish Morocco against the Madrid administration.

"This is a fight for life or death," the government spokesmen pronounced. They added that the rebels hold the same view.

The 10,000-ton cruiser entered the navy yard June 16 for routine overhaul. Navy yard workers had been assigned to the repairs. The defective cable was replaced by a new one. The Indianapolis cost approximately $11,000,000 without armament. She was commissioned November 14, 1922.

The Indianapolis is the third of the Navy's new cruisers to meet with a mysterious accident during the last year, although in the other cases the navy did not directly attribute them to sabotage.

Two electrical fires broke out aboard the Quincy while she was under construction at the Fore River shipyards in Massachusetts and in each instance short circuits were blamed. More recently one of the Quincy's turbines was found to have been stripped by a large bolt which was by accident or design, was dropped into the craned gear case.

Only a short time ago an electrical fire slightly damaged the cruiser Vancouver, sister ship of the Quincy, now under construction at Fore River.

Official Report of Capt. C. A. Dunn Says Nails Were Driven in Cable, Causing a Short Circuit That Started Blaze.

NO SUSPECTS

Probing Incident at Brooklyn Navy Yard; Two Other New Cruisers Had Short Circuits This Year.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 11 (AP).—A small fire, "undoubtedly deliberate," was discovered aboard the U. S. Indianapolis on August 25 while it was undergoing routine overhaul in the Brooklyn Navy Yard, Captain C. A. Dunn, manager of the yard, said today.

Capt. Dunn said, in a statement, that the fire was due to a short circuit in some of the auxiliary power cables and that damage was confined to the cables.

He said two nails were found in one circuit in a fire room of the 10,000-ton naval cruiser on which President Roosevelt took a trip in 1933, and another nail was found in another circuit which was dead.

"This action was undoubtedly deliberate," he said. "The navy yard has no one under suspicion at the present time."

The statement follows: "About August 25, 1936, a small fire occurred on the U. S. Indianapolis, then undergoing routine overhaul at the navy yard, Brooklyn, N. Y. This fire was due to a short circuit in some of the auxiliary power cables. No damage was done to the ship. The damage was confined to the cables."

"A thorough examination of all cables has been made subsequent to the fire. Two nails were found in one circuit in a fire room. One nail was found in another circuit but that wire was dead. The action was undoubtedly deliberate. The navy yard has no one under suspicion at the present time."

"The navy yard completed the overhaul with navy yard workmen. The Indianapolis left for her post repair trial this morning, Friday, September 11, 1936, as previously planned."

Schacht Pulls The Wires For Hitler's Big Deals

New York, (AP)—The man behind the gun in many of Nazi Dictator Hitler's recent far-reaching political and economic moves among neighboring states has been Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, credited with wielding more power in Germany than any other man save Der Fuehrer himself.

Through his position as president of the Reichsbank and minister of economics, Dr. Schacht is virtually financial and economic dictator of the Fatherland, always remembering that there is only one real boss in Germany—Adolf Hitler. Schacht, who stands ace-high with his chief, is known as one German who can criticize the government more than once and not come a cropper. He speaks his mind so freely on all subjects that Old Line Nazis frequently cringe at his "heresy" but Hitler just smiles.

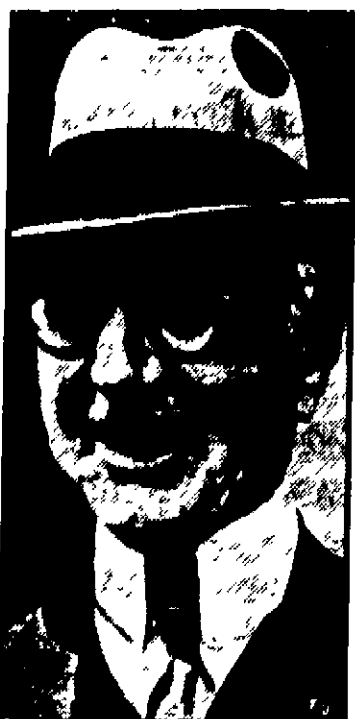

Bargains With France

Schacht is fond of telling the world that he has nothing to do with politics, that he is just a plain financial and economic chap. However, he has had a big hand in the private negotiations which European diplomats think are tending toward an Austro-Italian-German alliance.

The other day, too, the doctor took himself in his famous two-story white collar to Paris to assure France that she had nothing to fear from Germany's lengthening of military service which would greatly increase the size of her army. Having delivered this message, Dr. Schacht is reported to have told French ministers that the best way to cope with German militarism was to aid economic rehabilitation of the Reich.

Travels For Hitler

It is reported he also attempted to persuade France to break off her alliance with Russia in favor of an arrangement with Germany in any event. Premier Blum, of France, was said to have replied his government would join in any conversations which might facilitate Europe's economic, financial and political problems.

Dr. Hjalmar Schacht is virtually dictator of finance in Germany.

Dr. Schacht has been doing a deal of journeying about in other places on confidential missions for Hitler. The minister's bluff and apparently open-handed way of doing things, coupled with his admitted capabilities, carry him a long way.

When Schacht has made up his mind to a thing, he smashes straight for it unflinching of consequences. He is an intense nationalist, like his master, and applies the nationalistic principles to his operations in finance and economics. The minister is 53 years old. When he isn't involved in high finance he likes to raise pigs.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Richter of Amsterdam were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Richter and family on Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Clinton Finger and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Curtis of New York city motored through Canada on their vacation.

During the month of August the Saugerties Police Department made 33 arrests. Eighteen were for violations of the motor vehicle laws and ordinances, seven for complaints that were dismissed or withdrawn. The cases were tried before Police Justice Bennett and Justices Rogers and Ohley.

The first annual clambake of the employees of the Martin Cantine Paper Co. was held at the Esopus Valley Lodge up the creek with about 75 employees present.

Mrs. Mary Hardy of Partition street has returned home after spending the past several months in Newark, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Courtland Gueren and daughter of Mendham, N. J., were recent guests of Dr. and Mrs. B. W. Gifford on Ulster avenue.

Orville Sweet of the U. S. Navy has returned to his ship after spending a month's vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Sweet, on Robinson street.

George Garrison, father of Floyd B. Garrison of Market street is recovering from illness at the home of his daughter at Kerhonkson.

Miss Francis O'Dea of Partition street enjoyed her vacation visiting at Long Beach, L. I., and New York city.

William A. Chapman of Washington had the misfortune to fall on Sunday evening. Mr. Chapman was attended by Dr. McCraig, who found that his left hip was broken. He was conveyed to the Kingston Hospital where Dr. Saul Ritchie set and wired the broken member.

Ben Svirsky, eldest son of Sam Svirsky of Main street, this village, has been granted permission to assume the name of Ben Sanford after November 2. The application to the court was made through his attorney, Morris Rosenblum, of Main street.

Saugerties Chapter, D. A. R., is planning to hold a card party at the home of Miss Margaret Rising on Barclay Heights Tuesday afternoon, September 22. Those planning to attend may inform Mrs. F. E. W. Darrow or Miss Isabel Overbaugh. Michael Gallo of New York city, who is spending his vacation at Saxton, was taken with an attack of appendicitis. Dr. B. W. Gifford was called and the boy was taken to the Benedictine Hospital where an operation was performed.

A request has been made by the parents of children that a policeman be stationed at the Hill street school during the assembly and dismissal of children and the local board of education has taken the matter up with the village board. There is considerable traffic at this point and some protection is felt necessary to prevent children from being run down and injured.

STOLEN DOG GOES FAR, EVENTUALLY GETS HOME

Talladega, Ala. (AP)—Jack Storey owned a pet terrier. Someone stole it and swapped it to two small boys for a sack of apples. The boys sold it for $5. The dog strayed and John Curtis picked it up, then gave it to Earl Horn.

"Red" Robinson, who had bought the dog, complained to police, who started at the beginning and soon unraveled the dog's wanderings. The net result was that Storey, the original owner, got his dog back; the two boys were minus their sack of apples, and Robinson was "out" five dollars.

Columbus, P. I. (AP)—Columbus to commemorate the centennial of the Philippine Commonwealth, has been named by the government. The ship arrived recently from Washington. The coins, in one case (39 cents gold) and 25 cents (25 cents gold) denominations bear the effigy of President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Commonwealth President Manuel L. Quezon, and United States High Commissioner Frank Murphy.

SCHOOL? IT'S SIDELINE WITH BRITISH TEACHERS

Oxford, (AP)—British rural school teachers are expected to do everything from cutting old people's hair to acting as adviser to the local council in addition to teaching children, according to Miss M. Wintling, a prominent speaker at the liberal summer school here.

The "duties" of one country teacher included seeing all the new pupils, visiting the sick and aged and cutting, shingling and bobbing their hair, coaching a cop for an examination, making wills, filling in income tax forms, attending parish council meetings to advise council-

lois, acting as secretary of the garden show, organizing outdoor sports, serving on the women's institute committee, helping a woman farmer, helping choose wallpaper and curtains, dusting cobwebs from the beams of an old woman's shop, and playing the organ in church and at concerts when the organist fails to turn up.

KINGSTON, N. Y., SEPT. 11, 1936.

WHO IS "SIR BOSS"?

The story is told of a German farmer in Macoupin county, Illinois,
 who had voted for Roosevelt in 1932, and who was asked how he would vote this approaching election in view of the farm "benefits" which he had received. He answered in rather broken English, but very much to the point: "I not vote for Mr. Roosevelt any more. I think
 man who owns his farm should run
 it."

There are a lot of others who feel the same way as this farmer, men and women running farms, and small businesses and multitudes of small town merchants, who have felt the hand of government regulation in their lives and livelihoods to the point of exasperation. There was the NRA regulating business in the food hope that it would bring about better business relationships and profits for all which even before it was declared unconstitutional was an announced failure in the larger sense of the word. There is the AAA which has brought grief to many farmers and taxed others to pay these same farmers for work
 and products they never did or made. And the farmers wanted to work and raise products and be left alone. There are a hundred alphabetical agencies directed by the federal government, each restricting normal living and business and bringing grief in their respective fields of enterprise.

And the cost. No government,
 city, state or national, can be run with the same degree of efficiency as a private enterprise, but the present federal government has overstepped
 the bounds of the past and has thrown money away like water.
 Money which some day must be repaid by the sweat of the brow.

American farmers, merchants,
 business men do not want a "Sir Boss" in King Arthur's Court to run them. They are an enlightened people who know their own minds and who wish to be left alone to make their own living and enjoy life. No wonder the Illinois farmer resents being told how to run his farm. No wonder he will not vote again for Roosevelt. And no wonder there are millions who will join him on election day.

THE WORST EVER.

"... the worst and dirtiest politics ever seen," is the description
 life-long Democrat Henry L.
 Mencken, long noted as editor of the American Mercury magazine, recently gave to New Deal politics.

"Charity has become a political racket. The taxpayers' money is being paid out to buy votes. If Roosevelt gets away with it, it will be the most deliberate and indecent corruption of the people the world has seen since the days of the Romans."

And the vigorous minded Mencken
 adds: "For that reason I'm voting for Landon, although I'm a Democrat and always have been."

That, in brief, is the way an experimented political observer views
 the Washington scene. He urges vigorous campaign handling of the "dangerous, idiotic, catch-phrase schemes to grab the ignorant voter."

If the mass of Democrats who believe with Mencken in commonsense and decency will support the Republican ticket, as many Democratic leaders now are doing, the radicals can be turned out of office.
 Then the American plan of government can be saved from the bolsherism that threatens.

CONQUERED HORN ANGLE.

Another baffling problem has been solved. Mathematicians attending Harvard University's very famous Tercentenary Conference on Arts and Sciences have heard a fellow scientist
 explain how to measure the horn
 angle, an enigma for 2,500 years.
 The horn angle is that formed when two or more curved lines branch out of a common stem, thus forming the shape of a horn. The Greeks described it had some value and could be used in geometry.

neither be measured nor bisected.
 Newton and mathematicians through the centuries have looked into the matter and agreed with the Greeks.
 Now, Dr. Edward Kasner, research professor of mathematics at Columbia University, has found a way not only to measure the angle, but to cut it up. And what's more, he has found that the parts, when added together,
 make a sum generally much greater than the whole.

This might sound like good news
 to youngsters studying geometry,
 who often find it troublesome to get
 the right answer in demonstrating that the sum of the parts of a thing is equal to the whole. But this new type of geometry probably won't reach them soon. It is said to be more difficult to understand than Einstein's theory of relativity.
 There is a little cheer, however, in the thought that baffling enigmas do occasionally yield their secrets to great thinkers. Perhaps some day
 even the economic and social enigmas that plague our civilization will be solved.

THE BUILDING-UP DIET.

You often read about the white bread, meat, potato and sugar diet
 and of how it is responsible for most of the ailments of today—decayed teeth, indigestion, poor eyesight, constipation, hardening of the arteries and other human defects.

As a matter of fact every one of the above foods is a good food and should be eaten. What our health writers are condemning is that the above foods together with some
 "ready to serve" cereals make up practically the whole diet of thousands of people. There is really nothing wrong with these foods in themselves, but there are other foods besides these that must be eaten if good health is to be maintained.

"When domestic or laboratory animals such as the farm pig or the rat are restricted to a diet of refined cereals, meats, fruits, peas, beans
 and sugar with but small additions
 of other foods, bony defects quickly appear in the young. The teeth are defective and in the rat decay early.
 Such creatures fail to attain full adult size and they look physically inferior. They grow old more rapidly than is necessary."

I am quoting from "Food, Nutrition and Health," by Dr. E. V. Mc-Collum and J. Ernestine Becker, of the School of Hygiene and Public Health, Johns Hopkins University.

However, Dr. McCollum has for many years advised that we should not worry about our diet and its defects or deficiencies but to simply add a couple of food substances to the above diet, and think no more about it. He says:

"There are available two types of 'protective' foods, or foods which are so constituted as to make good
 the defects of a white bread, meat, sugar and potato type of diet. These are milk and leafy vegetables. Neither of these appeals to the appetite in so great a degree as do sweet foods and meats. Owing largely to the fact that milk and leafy vegetables do not appeal to the appetite, most of us in North America have a 'sweet tooth' and an appetite for meats which we have difficulty in controlling."

"Milk and the leafy vegetables are so constituted as to correct the deficiencies and defects of the cereal, potato, fruit and meat mixture. It is apparent that the defects in the development of children would be in a great measure avoided if we were to restrict to some extent the consumption of white bread, meat, potatoes, and include more liberal amounts of dairy products and green leafy vegetables for the simple reason that they are 'corrective.' Their inclusion in the diet is suitable amounts forms an important health measure."

THE WORLD WITH A FENCE

A New Novel by Marion Sims

Chapter 43

SOLACE

SO CORNELIA knew. Did that mean, then, that everybody knew? That she and Blake had been ostriches with their heads in the sand? She winced, and tried to push back the thought with the physical activity of making coffee and toast.

She felt the weight of horror;
 knew that she could stay in this room all day and be mad by night.
 She threw on her clothes with desperate haste and fled, locking the door behind her.

But the horror came with her,
 through the locked door and into the gray coldness of the outside world. She boarded an uptown car, and felt its breath on her cheek. She almost expected the conductor to say "Two!" as she held out the money for her fare.

She bought a dress, wondering all
 the while if she could ever wear it,
 and lost the black shadow for a time
 in the crush of eager struggling women who hunted after Christmas bargains.

She ordered lunch and made a pretense of eating it, then sought the sheltering darkness of a theatre, to sit staring blindly at shadows that moved and spoke and pretended to happen. How do you know that it won't open a lot of other people's eyes?

Cornelia smiled. "You don't give me credit for being smarter than the mob, do you?"

"Oh, yes I do! But ferreting out this sort of thing hasn't got much to do with intelligence. Usually it's the other way around."

"True. But I've seen two or three people today, and I know none of them has guessed. The general result is: 'She never has been quite normal, anyway.'"

The mention of Irma shattered
 Carol's composure, so that she shivered and turned her face away.

"Cornie, I—I don't believe I can stand it..."

"Yes, you can," Cornelia said firmly. "You can stand it and eventually forget it."

"Forget that—you've killed somebody?"

"Oh, my God!" Cornelia said hot-
 ly. "I expected something better than that from you. You didn't kill her; it was her own rotten cowardice and spite that did it."

"No it wasn't. She wouldn't have done anything so desperate if she hadn't loved him terribly."

"Oh, no?" Cornelia said scornfully. "She'd have done it just as quickly if she'd hated him. She

"You didn't kill her!"

suffer beautifully in gowns by Adrian.

She made herself see the film
 through, then she boarded a car and got off at the market nearest the Sherwood. Cornelia, being invited to dinner, would expect to eat Lamb chops and artichokes, Gruyere cheese and lettuce; these things at least were real and permanent.

Cornelia came soon after six,
 straight from work, she said, and looking straight from Park Avenue instead. She took off her hat and coat and went to the kitchen, where she began expertly to fashion a salad.

She talked lightly and steadily until the meal was done, and Carol followed her lead as best she could. If they were to eat they must keep the shadow at bay as long as possible.

But after dinner Carol made the plunge herself, breaking through Cornelia's laughing account of an unruly customer.

"Cornie, why did you come here
 tonight?"

Cornelia inhaled her cigarette slowly. "You know, or you wouldn't ask that question."

"Yes, the shock was in realizing that you knew, too. And that if you knew, there must be a lot of others who did."

NO. That was what I came to tell you. I don't know how I guessed, except that I realized what would probably have happened to me in the same position." She smiled faintly. "I don't believe I could work with a man like Blake and not fall in love with him, and I didn't believe he could work with a girl like you and not do the same thing. I wasn't sure, of course, but when this happened I couldn't think of any other reason."

Carol started to speak, but Cornelia broke in quickly. "What I wanted to tell you was that nobody has suspected a thing; so far as I know, there hasn't been a breath that linked your name with his. And if there had been, I believe I would have heard it because—" she grimaced—"I seem to hear things
 whether they interest me or not."

"But—you weren't sure until this wasn't capable of love; you know that. Hate can make you just as desperate as love; hate and jealousy."

"Well, in either case we drove her to it."

Cornelia said more quietly: "Do you mind telling me what did happen? I can judge better if you do."

SHE told her, dully, of Blake's trip to Florida and of his filing the suit. But not of the ironic night of his return: nobody, she prayed, would ever know about that. When she had finished Cornelia nodded vigorously.

"If there's anything shameful or dishonest about all that, I can't see
 it. Good Lord, Carol, people get divorces every day! It doesn't cause a ripple."

"Not divorce, no. But—suicide—is another story. Don't you see," she cried out, "that it's not whether people guess it or not? That it's something that would be there—between us—if we lived a thousand years?
 He feels exactly as I do about it."

"How do you know he does?" Cornelia demanded bluntly. "You've got to see Blake as soon as he gets back.
 Maybe he can reason with you even if I can't."

Cornelia was probably right. You couldn't leave a thing like this suspended in mid-air—not if you hoped to keep your reason. She agreed happily.

"Yes, I guess I'll have to see him
 —once. But not here; it would be sure to be the one time he'd be seen, and recognized. I—may get you to help me out."

"It's what I came for," Cornelia said sturdily. "And for goodness' sake do it right away. Don't let the thing eat your heart out first."

She stood up. "Get your hat.
 We're going and play bridge with the Gordons."

Carol spun around and her eyes were wet. "Cornie I can't see anybody!"

"You're got to," Cornelia said flatly. "The sooner you start getting used to it the sooner you'll get over
 it. Get your hat and stop talking!"
 (Copyright, 1936, by Marion Sims)

Carol needs them, tomorrow.

WORLD PEACE CONFERENCE

CRITIC BY CHURCH GROUP

Montreux, Switzerland (AP)—A world conference to deal with outstanding problems which imperil
 world peace has been recommended
 here by the management committee of the World Alliance for International Friendship Through the Churches.
 A resolution adopted by delegates from 24 countries says a way must be found to bring under imperial survey the economic grievances and other injustices from which the anxieties and fears of nations grow
 "and which account in large measure for the fatal race in armaments."

The resolution urges the League of Nations in collaboration with non-member countries to convene an international conference which would discuss protective tariffs and financial obstacles to world trade, insti-

ty to obtain raw materials, an outlet for excess populations and the future of colonial possessions and mandated territories.

"DELUSIONS" OF BANKERS

SCORED BY ECONOMIST

Dixwell, Hampshire (AP)— Bankers are deluded persons and prefer to remain deluded, declared
 Prof. Frederick Soddy, British scientist and economist, at a prosperity campaign conference here.
 "Under the present monetary system, war is the only possible outlet
 for the great resources modern science has provided," Soddy said. "Democracy is a failure because it cannot create money."

MODENA

Modena, Sept. 11.—The September-
 October committee of the Ladies' Aid Society met at Mrs. Ransel Wager's home Tuesday evening to plan the menu for the cafeteria supper to be served Wednesday evening, September 16 in the Hasbrouck Memorial Hall, by the society. The menu planned is as follows: Frankfurters

Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Chambers and family are entertaining company
 at their home.

Meat Drying Once Required

High Pressure Treatment

Meat drying in the early days
 was a high pressure operation, according to Col. E. N. Wentworth, director of Armour's live stock bureau. Following the slaughter, or the hunt, the meat was piled in skins and taken to camp. There was no chance for either hunter or camp follower to rest. The knives were sharpened and the meat cut into thin, flat strips which were hung in trees, when available, or on poles out of reach of the dogs, or in the top of the hut or tepee where the heat of the fire would help the meat to dry rapidly. When properly prepared, the meat was in transparent strips which were very hard and inflexible. Sometimes it was transported in this form, or again it was powdered by beating with stone or wooden mallets, mixed with dried fruits and vegetables to form pemmican, and in this powdered condition transported in skin sacks or bladders. Pemmican was the principal food of the native races in

Damascus May Have Been

Founded by Kim of Noah

Damascus in Syria has been regarded as the oldest city in the world, its foundation having been attributed by the Jewish historian Josephus to the great-grandson of Noah. Evidence in the fourteenth chapter of Genesis indicates that the place was of importance in the time of Abraham, or at least 2000
 B. C.

It is difficult to list other old cities in the order of their foundation, observes a writer in the Detroit News. Bagdad, on a site which has been occupied since very early times and preserving the name which it has held for at least 4,000 years, did not become a city of first rank until the Arabian town
 was founded in the eighth century
 A. D., on the site of the ancient Babylonian city.

Peking (now Peiping) in China
 stands on the site of one of the oldest cities of the world. The earliest city of which there is authentic record there was Chi, the capital of Yen, most northerly of the feudal states which acknowledged the authority of the Chou Dynasty in the twelfth century B. C.

The city of Cairo in Egypt is near the site of the ancient Memphis,
 one of the world's first cities to be established.

The African Hippopotamus
 In Africa, the hippopotamus inhabits great tropical rivers, lakes and estuaries, generally feeding upon marine plants and swamp vegetation. Upon occasion, however,
 he can work havoc with river-bottom crops, particularly since he forages and in herds of 20 or more.
 The hippo is an amiable fellow until wounded or cornered. In an emergency, however, he has resource to a surprising amount of agility, ferocity and strength. His hide, 2 inches thick, is quite a protection from long and claw. Native trap the hippo in his runways for his flesh and teeth, which are of continuous growth, sometimes weigh as much as 6 pounds, and are used for ivory.

There was nothing but coffee for breakfast at a certain home yesterday morning. The man of the house was sent out for a loaf of bread Sunday night, and thoughtlessly brought home an unsliced loaf.

The fire chief was inspecting a building against fire hazards. After a thorough inspection, he came to the manager and said:

Fire Chief—I find this building safe except for one thing. You have no fire escapes.

Manager—Oh, don't you know, this is leap year?

Elsa Spangles says: "The intelligent girl is one who knows how to refuse a kiss without being deprived of it."

Why does the dog that barks at night keep everyone in the neighborhood awake except the owner?

Little Jane, age 5, contentedly licking a lollipop, came into a drugstore and said her mother wanted a roll of tissue paper. The clerk wrapped it up and handed it to her.

Little Jane—Charge it, please.

Clerk (not knowing her)—Certainly. But who is it for?

Little Jane (sauntering blithely on her way)—All of us.

Mother—What is your baby brother crying about?

Junior—He has dug a big hole in the backyard and wants to bring it in the house.

Some rain must fall on all of us, but the wise ones all carry an umbrella.

Wife (to her husband)—Don't you think this gown is fetching?

Husband (smiling)—Yes, fetching instilment men and bill collectors.

Farmer—What is that?

College Man—Please let me stay in bed long enough for the lamp chimney to cool off.

A man of unstable emotions is sure, quite frequently, to make a jackass of himself—and that's expensive.

Alice—Would you put yourself out for me?

Fred—Certainly.

Alice—Then close the door as you go.

Landon Lead Drops Slightly As Nine States Return Ballots In Literary Digest Straw Poll

Lemke Receives His Maximum State Strength of Less Than Ten Per Cent in Minnesota.

Roosevelt Carries Two Southern States Tied.

Landon's lead over Roosevelt decreases to less than 2 to 1 in the second week's report of The Literary Digest's 10,000,000-ballot Presidential straw poll.

Landon is shown receiving 61,190 votes and Roosevelt 33,423 with Lemke trailing the two major candidates with 4,169 out of a total of 99,734 ballots reported.

Thomas is indicated receiving slightly over one-half of the balance of 1 per cent of the total vote cast to date which is divided among the other four candidates.

Votes are now tallied from Indiana, Minnesota, Ohio, Oklahoma and Texas for the first time.

The balloting in Maine shows a decline percentagewise for Landon from more than 3 to 1 last week to a little over 2 to 1 this week.

New York continues to vote approximately the same the second week as it did the first, over 2 to 1 for Landon.

The Republican lead in Pennsylvania is noted as increasing as the volume of ballots reported from the Keystone state nearly triples in the second week's tally.

The first returns from Texas show a lead of well over 4 to 1 for Roosevelt.

Oklahoma's first votes are meager but give Roosevelt 712 votes to Landon's 618.

The early ballots from Ohio give Landon more than a 3 to 2 lead over Roosevelt which 3,293 votes marked for the Republican candidate to 2,193 ballots in favor of the Democratic nominee.

An addition of over 11,000 votes from New Jersey increases Landon's last week lead of over 3 to 2 fractionally.

On the basis of an Electoral College division so far Landon would receive 155 votes to Roosevelt's 34.

An analysis of how the same voters voted in 1932 indicates that 5,648 of the 59,916 poll voters who voted officially for Hoover four years ago now intend to vote for Roosevelt, while 10,592 of the 34,663 poll voters who mark their ballots as voting for Roosevelt four years ago indicate they will vote for Landon in 1936.

Lemke receives his largest share of any state vote in Minnesota where his tally is nearly 9 1/2 per cent of the total there so far.

The Union candidate receives less than 5 per cent of Ohio's total poll vote and 0.5 per cent of Oklahoma's vote with his share ranging between these two ratios in the other six states from which ballots are reported.

The analysis of the past political preferences of the voters shows that Lemke is drawing his strength from the major parties at the ratio of approximately four Democratic to one Republican voter of 1932.

"The Literary Digest's Presidential Poll of more than 10,000,000 voters swings into its third week," the magazine states in its columns.

"It now shows the original handful of 24,000—odd ballots quadrupled to 99,734. It shows preliminary returns in scattered sections of five new states, as the tabulators dip below the Mason and Dixon Line to size up two states nominally heavily Democratic—Texas and Oklahoma.

"It shows Governor Landon leading in three mid-western farm states—Ohio, Minnesota and Indiana—on early returns. And it shows President Roosevelt whittling his opponent's first returns margin of more than 2 to 1 in the original four states—New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maine—to slightly under 2 to 1.

"Will the New Deal leader continue to close the gap, as tens of thousands of secret post-card ballots swell the flood of incoming returns, this week and every week until November? Will the man in the White House reach and pass the man in Topeka, Kansas, at the half-million mark—the million mark?

"Only the final results can tell, but here is what happened in Maine's column from the first week to the second: From a lead of 1,831 to 522 (more than 3 to 1), the Landon margin dropped to 4,826 to 2,179 (only a little more than 2 to 1).

"That change in political fortune amply illustrates what The Literary Digest means by its warning to the public: These are only the scattering early returns; the leadership may shift again and again during the progress of the poll.

"First returns from Minnesota give Landon 8,620; Roosevelt, 5,939. Does that mean that Minnesota will go Republican? Not necessarily, for it must be remembered that these returns are far from final. And there is another factor: Lemke. The state gives Lemke 1,544 in first returns—the largest vote he had received in any state, by far. And 1,137 of those 1,544 had voted for Roosevelt in 1932; only 207 for Hoover. Will the Lemke vote be a sufficient factor to defeat the Democrats in Minnesota?

"Interesting, too, are the first reactions from Ohio—half-agricultural, half-industrial, half-east, half-west: For Landon, 3,293; for Roosevelt, 2,193; for Lemke, 271. A little better than 2 to 1 for the Kansan, to start.

"The Texas vote is small—930 for Roosevelt, 185 for Landon. Oklahoma, the only other state thus far in the President's column, gives him 712 to Landon's 618.

"Indiana turns in 2,542 Republican votes against 1,690 for the New Deal.

"Perhaps most interesting of all are the supplementary returns from the other three states canvassed in the first figures—New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

"In the first two states, the Republican standard bearer just about managed to hold his earlier margin of superiority. The New York totals jumped from 5,931 against 2,724 to 18,715 against 7,194—still a trifle better than 2 to 1. In New Jersey, the totals rose from 2,660 against 1,621 to 9,402 against 5,733—a slight drop in percentage for Landon.

"But in Pennsylvania, where New Deal leaders professed to feel assured that Governor Earle's popularity, plus John L. Lewis's rallying of the miners' vote to the President, would put the state in the Democratic column for the first time since the War between the States, the Kansas governor increased his more than 2 to 1 lead appreciably. First figures were 5,634 to 2,778; second returns were 14,989 to 6,853.

"Meanwhile, tens of thousands of new ballots stream into The Literary Digest offices. Next week's totals may paint an entirely different picture in one of the most dramatic Presidential contests the nation has ever witnessed."

Roman Empire's Highways

Were Several Feet Thick

The Roman Empire was intersected by roads, constructed principally between the Second and Fourth centuries after Christ.

These highways, notes a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer, varied from eight to fifteen feet in width, and were often laid for considerable distances on bases several feet thick. They were to a large extent roads of hard materials, whatever the country traversed afforded, and were so well built that the original construction of some of them is still found. Indeed, some of these highways were so durably built that they have sustained the traffic of 2,000 years without great injury.

Soldiers, slaves and criminals were employed in the construction of the Roman roads, which were almost universally built in straight lines, without regard for grade, probably because the use of beasts of burden as the chief means of transport made the preservation of the level an affair of minor importance.

The Roman Forum is said to have been the point of convergence of twenty-four roads which, with their branches, had a total length of 52,964 Roman miles.

In Great Britain there were four principal Roman roads—Warring street, from Kent to Cardigan bay; Icknield street, from St. David's to Tynemouth; Fosse way, from Cornwall to Lincoln, and Ermin street, from St. David's to Southampton.

Rare Manned Wolf Feared

by Matteo Grasso Indians

Something of the mystery and superstition of his native pampas clings to the "ghost" wolf, who bears an evil reputation, says a writer in the Washington Star. His bad name comes from the Indians who can scarcely be persuaded to hunt or trap him because they fear some supernatural power. The "ghost" or manned wolf shares his reputation with the almost unexplored savannas and river jungles of the Mato Grosso.

His nocturnal, solitary habits have contributed, perhaps, to the native superstition.

The manned wolf is perhaps more closely related to the fox than the wolf family. He hunts at night and alone, usually far from the haunts of man.

Timid, fleet and stealthy, he moves like a phantom through a country sparsely inhabited by Indians and rarely visited by white men.

Thus a "ghost" wolf is almost unknown to the world's zoological collection.

V. B. VAN WAGEN,

To Form Hotel and Restaurant Assoc.

Thursday afternoon at 3:30, a group of hotel and restaurant men met at the Governor Clinton to form a hotel and restaurant association in Kingston.

John Egan of the Kirkland Hotel was made temporary chairman.

R. R. Gross was unanimously elected secretary.

The Messrs. Laurie, of the Stuyvesant Hotel, Scharrer of the Clinton Ford Pavilion, Mr. Egan of the Kirkland, Mr. Faye of Faye's Restaurant, John Janakis of the Sea Grill Restaurant and Mr. Gross were made a board of directors temporarily.

The next meeting of the association will be held at the Governor Clinton on Thursday afternoon, September 17, at 3 o'clock, to which all hotel men and restaurant men of the City of Kingston and vicinity are invited.

Fourteen went from this end of the Olive Bridge charge. In the afternoon many visited Lake Mohawk.

Stanley Krum and family of Maybrook spent the week-end here on their farm.

The Sadlo family have returned home to Long Island after spending their summer vacation here on the Freeman Roosa place.

Heartiest congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Keator who were married Sunday, September 6. Their many friends wish them a long and happy married life.

Oren Lee and sons and daughter, Jennie, visited his sister, Jennie, in Red Hook, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Slauson, daughter, Dorothy, visited at Joseph Lennon's Sunday.

Burton Barringer is ill with the summer grip.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Keator recently called on Joseph Lennon and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Asa Barringer of Samsonville heights were callers in this place Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Haver of Ashokan visited Mr. and Mrs. Krum and children here at Mrs. Haver's old homestead.

Oliver Gray and family were visitors at Louis Barringer's of Samsonville heights, Monday night.

Friends of Percy Jeffs of Samsonville are sorry to hear of his accident Monday evening. He is in the hospital in Kingston suffering with severe burns. He held a lighted lantern while filling the vacuum tank on his car. The fumes caused an explosion and enveloped him in flames.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Keator called on Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Barringer Monday evening.

Friends are glad to hear that Vincent Traver is much better and hope he will soon be well.

A child's idea of paradise in the summer is no fairy castle, but a shining emporium where tall stools flank a marble slab and magic syphons and long curly-handled spoons evolve heavenly mixtures—the soda fountain!

Unemployed Youth Problem Discussed At Kiwanis Meeting

The unemployment problem, its causes, possible aids to its solution and the problem of unemployed youth was brought to the attention of Kiwanians at the Governor Clinton Hotel Thursday noon by Dr. Frank Brown, Department of Sociology, New York University. The speaker was secured through the efforts of Robert Service of the Kingston High School faculty.

Dr. Brown's address was expected to contain information concerning the extension university contemplated for Kingston, but the extent of business before the club made it necessary for the college professor to curtail his remarks, and the address developed into a basic discussion of unemployment.

"Last year 1,100,000 high school students graduated," began the speaker, "and the question before us is, what happened to them?" Dr. Brown then explained how some of them found employment and how a large part of the remainder could be found in pool rooms, street corners and in drug stores—"through no fault of their own, nor through no fault of business, but because of the inevitable change in the economic and sociological life of the nation."

Dr. Brown listed the reasons for this condition as follows: Increase in population, growing birth rate; increase in length of life, the fact that many men of middle age were still in business when a few years ago their earning power would have been ended at middle age; women in business, where a few years ago women working except as household servants and teachers were scorned; increase in child labor, the last few years has seen many high school children and boys and girls of that age taking jobs formerly performed by older persons; and most important the increase in productive power of the individual through the development of machinery.

The speaker went into detail in explaining the last of his reasons. He said that there was a fallacy in connection with that reasoning which contends that the surplus of manpower thrown out of work through the development of machinery would be taken up in the manufacture of the machine required to do the work. "It is easy to see," Dr. Brown stated, "that the same labor saving devices will be used to create the new machine as are used in the factory where that machine will be placed."

The contention that there would be more and greater opportunities for skilled labor was also scorned by the professor, who stated that "there is little left that cannot be done better and more quickly by machinery than by human hands."

He illustrated with a housing problem where several hundred prefabricated homes per day were assembled on a certain development, making skilled carpenter work unnecessary.

Concerning the way out of this problem the professor suggested several possible solutions. First he said a new great discovery might provide work for the unemployed. He recalled that following the Civil War the development of the railroad system provided employment and eased the situation. He also called attention to the shortsightedness of certain business men who thought only in terms of profits and failed to consider the welfare of their hired help. He thought that increased wages and hence an increase in "consuming power" was a possible aid in solving the problem.

The most important solution, and the most likely, thought the speaker, was proper "vocational education." He disagreed with laws which compel the boy or girl to attend a school until a certain age and take certain required work. It was his opinion that through vocation education it was possible to determine just what a young man and woman was fitted to do and was interested in, and that proper education would incite a desire to make that boy and girl con-

Coal May Take the Place of Fuel Oil

W. A. Selvig, U. S. Bureau of Mines geologist, has predicted that the nation's known oil reserves will last only fifteen years, necessitating development of a new type liquid fuel from coal within the present generation. While the fuel oil supply is said to be limited the coal outlook is somewhat brighter. Only 1 per cent of the original coal reserves of the country have been consumed, leaving three and one-half trillion tons still in the earth.

Win Bankruptcy Discharges

New York, Sept. 10 (Special)—Discharges from bankruptcy were granted in United States District Court here by Judge Francis G. Caffey to Johanna N. Kelly, operator of a summer camp in Ellenville, and Robert R. Lasher, New Paltz salesman. The Kelly bankruptcy petition was filed on May 6. She listed liabilities of $4,710 and no assets. No objections to her discharge or that of Mr. Lasher were raised by creditors.

Crochet A Rug -- Then A Scarf

Household Arts by Alice Brooks

Matching Towel and Scarf in Crochet Makes a Smart Tie-up

PATTERN 3289

Today's bathroom must be colorful and smart. Enhance yours with this rug crocheted in two colors, or in white or black and a color. A matching towel end will help you to complete the decorative arrangement. If it's the bedroom that needs attention, this rug with a filet crocheted scarf in string will do the trick. Use rags, rug yarn or candlewicking. In pattern 5289 you will find complete instructions and charts for making the rug, towel band and filet scarf; an illustration of them and of the stitches needed; material requirements, and color suggestions.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to the Kingston Daily Freeman, Household Arts Dept., 239 W. 14th street, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and PATTERN NUMBER.

California Gulps 'Beep' As Liquor Vote Pends

San Francisco (AP)—Thirsty Californians are downing "beep" in "puffets" while the state prepares to go to the polls to decide what to do about the drinking situation.

Those who wish to put their foot on the rail as they wet their palates must look not only for signs of "beep" but also for "b—" or "bees on draught," for it's against the law to advertise beer in letters more than six inches high.

Moreover, the word "saloon," according to state statute, does not exist and you can camouflage drinking places but not with such everyday euphemisms as tavern, inn, or buffet.

"Bona Fide" Sprouted

When California joined the rush of states to legalize liquor sales by the drink and package, the enabling legislation prohibited the use of the word saloon and confined single drink sales to bona fide cafes, where no beer or stronger drink could be served without food. Enforcement was placed in the hands of the state board of equalization.

"Bona fide" drinking places sprouted overnight with rubber sandwiches the principal appetizer. Signs from a foot to a yard high—began appearing on the streets shouting that "beer-wine-whiskey" were inside—with mention of food in dully painted letters.

The board of equalization saw an unprecedented growth of eating establishments and decided beer or stronger drinks could not be mentioned in letters more than six inches high. Shortly thereafter it ruled that tavern, inn, buffet, etc., were not proper words to hang in lights in front of drinking emporiums.

The result? Gaudy illuminated signs spell out "cave," "avern," "tabern," "cavern," "beer-sandwiches," "inn," "buffet," "puffet."

Some of the places are more orthodox about it and merely put up the name of the host, or a symbolic figure. But they are in the minority.

California, characterized by its Anti-Saloon League as "the wettest state in the union," will have three choices at the polls in November.

Three Choices

One is a proposal by the United Dry Forces of California to write local option into the state constitution. An opposing body of opinion, operating chiefly through the Southern California Businessmen's Association, is submitting an amendment tightening up liquor regulation but not permitting local option. "Citizens in every community should have access to legal liquor," the association contends.

Or, the voters may choose to reject both amendments and retain the present set-up which, with minor exceptions, permits any kind of liquor establishment to operate anywhere.

The 21 organizations making up the United Dry Forces disclaim any

In California the liquor emporiums get around the law by goofy substitutions for such words as beer, tavern, inn and buffet on the signs they hang out in front. These are typical.

POLITICS at Random

IS A "far west" bloc of states forming in 1936 to take its place alongside the other grand divisions of American politics,—the south, the east, the midwest, the border, and the west?

Some ranking Democratic strategists profess to think so.

When they talk privately, they rank the far west right behind the solid south as the most hopeful Democratic territory this year.

They include as a minimum California, Oregon and Washington, with 35 electoral votes. Some of them add Montana, Idaho, Utah, Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico, raising the total to 56.

The Republicans concede none of these states, although there are some highly placed in Republican councils who will go so far as to agree that Democratic chances are better in this Pacific territory than in some other places.

The reasons for this involve a variety of issues. For one thing, the west coast has become a haven for liberalism of numerous brands, more or less setting it apart. Naturally, too, there is a certain far western community of interest on such subjects as mining and reclamation.

Perhaps a real change is taking place. It always has seemed inconsistent to lump together all of that vast territory west of the Mississippi as one political entity, yet that is the way it has voted in most past elections.

Olson Death A Factor

THE Democratic prognosticators also claim an exception in Wisconsin, because of the La Follette influence, and they are counting heavily on the Roosevelt farm policies, plus the home vote-gathering ability of Secretary Wallace, to swing Iowa.

But in Minnesota, which likewise has been high up on the Democratic claim list, there are complications. The death of Farmer-Labor Governor Olson has forced a reassessment of the entire state outlook.

Olson had been depended on to add the Farmer-Labor vote to the Democratic vote in Minnesota. He was trying to do that, right up to the end. His death-bed statement for Roosevelt will be widely circulated among his followers.

With his passing, however, the Lemke Union party is preparing to move into Minnesota in force. The Republicans hold that if Lemke splits off an appreciable portion of the left-wing strength previously controlled by Olson, Landon will be high man in Minnesota.

In various other states of the north-west and west, notably Lemke's home state of North Dakota, the Republicans cling to the same hope. Whoever is right about this, it seems assured that Minnesota and her neighbor states will witness a no-quarter, rough-and-tumble campaign.

Christian Endeavor Head to Talk Here

At the morning service of the Wurts Street Baptist Church, the message will be given by Howard G. Launbach, president of the New York State Christian Endeavor Union. Mr. Launbach is a strong and virile speaker and is an outstanding worker and leader among young people. He commenced his work among young people by being elected president of the Brooklyn C. E. Union and from that time has risen through the various offices of the state union until two years ago he was elected to the presidency of the state union. His work was of such a high nature and he is held in so high a regard by the young people of the state that he was unanimously reelected at Poughkeepsie this year. He holds a very important executive position with the Brooklyn Edison Electric Company.

Mr. Launbach is very busy traveling all over the state and it is fortunate that he was able to come at this time. He is to address the Youth Council Congress on Saturday evening and the Vesper Service at Minnewaska on Sunday evening and it was only due to his long friendship with the pastor of the church that he could be persuaded to add to his duties by an additional message.

All of the Christian Endeavorers of the county who may not be able to hear him at other times are more than cordially invited to be present at this morning service to have the privilege of hearing this splendid speaker and leader of young people.

Growers to Discuss Laws They Desire

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 11 (AP)—Growers of perishable fruits and vegetables will be given opportunity to discuss desired legislation at a series of public hearings planned for farm production centers throughout the state by the New York State Perishable Fruit and Vegetable Commission.

The first hearing will be conducted in Geneva in October. State Senator John T. McCall of New York city, chairman of the commission, announced last night.

The commission was originally created by the 1933 legislature to study grading and packing of fruit in New York state and to determine the advisability of legislation to improve such packing and grading under a state brand. The commission's powers were enlarged by this year's legislature to include similar problems of vegetable growers.

Raps Lehman for Wage Bill Veto

Westport, N. Y., Sept. 11 (AP)—State Senator Thomas C. Desmond of Newburgh, told the Essex County Women's Republican Club that Governor Lehman "has often hindered or delayed or even vetoed" so-called social legislation when introduced by a Republican.

Desmond in an address delivered before the club at the home of Mrs. Thomas Mulholland last night, declared the governor's record "is even worse on the highly important subject of minimum wage legislation."

Senator Desmond said the governor signed the Democratic Wald minimum wage bill in 1933 and vetoed the Republican Desmond-Brownell minimum wage bill. If Governor Lehman had signed the Republican bill, Desmond said "adequate minimum wage legislation would then be in force today in New York state to the great relief of present distressed conditions."

Desmond in the best policy—in fact too, if you agree with the cooks "back on the farm." No where else in this round world does simple honest-to-goodness food come into its own as on the American farmstead. From the shoofly pie of Pennsylvania to the shortbread bread of the South, farm-wives have a way with flavor.

Drunk Driver Is Fined $50 in Court

Stanley DeGroat, a negro of 14 1/2 Foxhall avenue, who pleaded guilty to driving a car while intoxicated, was fined $50 and his driving license revoked by Judge Culloton in police court this morning.

DeGroat was arrested last Saturday after his car had collided with the car of Joseph Komanski of 16 Reynolds street, damaging the Komanski car as well as the one DeGroat was driving. The imposition of sentence had been adjourned until this morning in police court.

Baker on Patrol, Klein Convalescing

Corporal Norman Baker of New Palitz, who was severely injured early in August when the State Police patrol car in which he was riding was struck by another car, has sufficiently recovered and Thursday resumed his duties. Trooper "Andy" Klein, who was also injured at the same time, was confined to the Kingston Hospital for several weeks and is still at his home in New Palitz. It will be a couple of weeks before Trooper Klein will be able to resume duty due to a severe leg injury which still makes necessary the use of crutches.

The accident happened after the patrol car had stopped along route 9-W south of Kingston and signaled a traffic violator to pull to the side of the road. Another car which was closing up fast on traffic was unable to stop and collided with the troop car throwing Trooper Klein from the running board and inflicting spinal injuries to Corporal Baker.

Police Pull Man Out Of Rondout Creek

Shortly after 3 o'clock this morning the police department received a call from Slightsburg that someone was shouting for help and that the one shouting appeared to be in the Rondout creek at the foot of Hasbrouck avenue. An alarm was sent out over the radio and officers Reedell and Korosman responded. They found a man who gave his name as Tommy Conrad, in the water, and with the assistance of Officer Stewart and Nightwatchman Charles Moesinger, they pulled Conrad out. How Conrad happened to be in the creek was not ascertained.

Heligoland, Germany
Heligoland, Germany, takes its name, Holyland, from having been a center of Christian activity in the seventh century, but it later fell into evil ways as a haven for pirate bands that ravaged the Hanseatic merchant traffic of the North Sea. To this Hamburg put a stop, joining the island to the neighboring Schleswig, whence it passed to Denmark and finally to England about the beginning of the last century. The trading of Heligoland to Germany for the island of Zanzibar off the African coast brought on a storm of popular protest in both countries. In England, the transaction was explained as the wish of Queen Victoria to grant a favor to her nephew, the young Emperor William.

Windsor, England
Windsor, England, is located on the Thames River, about 21 miles west of London. Windsor Castle covers 12 acres of ground in the Home Park, which is about four miles in circumference. A tree-lined avenue connects this park with the Great Park, which has a circuit of 18 miles. The castle, consisting of numerous chapels, cloisters and apartments is dominated by the round tower, which was built by Edward III. The Van Dyke room contains a priceless art collection. About one-half mile from the castle stands Frogmore, a handsome manor of Queen Victoria and her husband.

Second Meeting of Central Hudson Teams Saturday

The second in the series of three meetings of the softball teams representing the Central Hudson Company's Poughkeepsie, Newburgh and Kingston offices will be staged Saturday, September 12, at Hasbrouck Park.

The first game at 1:30 will bring together Poughkeepsie and Kingston, the second, Newburgh and Poughkeepsie, and the third will see Kingston in action against Newburgh. The standings from the games of last Saturday find Poughkeepsie leading with two wins and no losses, Kingston next with an average of .500 and Newburgh last with two defeats.

Manager Ben Short of the local outfit expects to sweep both games in tomorrow's series, using Big Ed Strong and "Dutch" Craw as his battery for both contests. The local manager states that the game his boys lost to Poughkeepsie last week by a 3-2 score was just a bit of bad luck, because the Kingston tossers were leading 1-0 for the first six innings. Winfield Van Bramer is expected to pitch against the Kingston outfit and although he was credited with last Saturday's victory, Shorty claims that it was not a case of a former "local boy makes good," but just plain luck smiling on the side of Poughkeepsie, and he aims to prove his statement this Saturday by leading the locals in a rout of the former Kingstonian and his Bridge City teammates.

Typewriter Postage Stamps

A typewriter once turned out bona fide postage stamps. It was not just a mere stunt; it was a necessity. This only recorded occasion when the pounding of a typewriter gained recognition in philately was in Uganda, now part of Kenya and Uganda, British colony and protectorate.

This was in 1893 and these typewritten stamps are listed as the first stamps of the district. This kind of postal paper was used about two years. The final design was a little more elaborate, for Uganda was then spelled out across the bottom with "V. 98. R." across the top. This signified the year and Victoria Regina. The value mark was in the center of the stamp.

Englishmen Pick Campbell to Win U. S. Amateur Golf

Garden City, N. Y., Sept. 11 (AP).—The British Walker Cup players pick Albert "Scotty" Campbell of Seattle over Johnny Goodman as the man to beat in the national amateur golf championship starting Monday.

"The extremes of Campbell's game are unusually sound, and if you can drive and putt here you'll be hard to beat," said Jock McLean, the whisky salesman from Glasgow.

British Like Heart
Despite their inglorious showing in the cup matches, the British players have taken heart at the sight of the Garden City course. Here the wind is high, and the greens firm and fast. Furthermore, the greens are generally on the level of the fairway and are excellent targets for the favorite British pitch and run shot.

"We feel more at home here," said Dr. William Tweddell, the British captain. "The turf has some of that seaside spring we know at home. The greens are solid and demand a good touch."

Of the 19 foreign players in the field, the experts list three who have a definite chance of taking the title out of the country. They are McLean, C. Ross "Sandy" Somerville of Canada, and Hector Thompson, the British amateur champion.

Lawson Little Leads
Canada's hopes of finding its first homebred winner of the Canadian open golf championship since the war appeared today to hang upon Gordon Brydson, pro at the Mississauga course at Port Credit, Ont.

Brydson, former right winger with several National Hockey League and American Association Clubs, still had to beat back such American shot-makers as Lawson Little, former United States amateur king, Jimmy Thompson of Shawnee-on-Deleware, Pa., Abe Espinosa of Chicago, Tony Manero, the U. S. open champion, and Ray Mangrum of Dayton, O.

Little Has 67
At 69, one under par, Brydson was two strokes off the lead after Little wrecked par by three strokes in the opening round. Thompson and Espinosa had 68's yesterday while Manero and Mangrum tied Brydson at 69.

Local Ball Players All Set to Show for Picinich, Giant Scout

Val Picinich, the New York Giant's scout, will be in Kingston Saturday afternoon as a guest of the American Legion to look over the local baseball talent. He is being brought here through the efforts of Eddie Coughlin and "Bun" Rourke of the Kingston Post and it is hoped that he might uncover some player or players in tomorrow's game at the Athletic Field who might be worthy of major league consideration.

Two teams made up of the best baseball talent in Kingston and vicinity will line up at 2:30 to play a regulation nine inning game for the benefit of Mr. Picinich who will be on the sidelines watching every move.

Pitchers seem to hold the spotlight in pre-game talk around the locker rooms. Charlie Neff and Joe Brown are conceded a good chance of gaining favor with the big leaguer, Eddie Burgevin, infield player, may make the grade. Ed has already had a tryout with the Boston Braves. This was last year and with another season's play under his belt might easily impress the scout.

The Board of Public Works has agreed to put the field in first class shape tomorrow morning so the boys will be able to enjoy the best possible playing conditions. In case of rain the game will be played on Sunday if arrangements can be made for Mr. Picinich to remain over.

The lineup:

Coughlin's
Bing Van Etten, first base.
Gil Keider, second base.
Jimmy Turck, third base.
Francello, shortstop.
Ky Embree, right field.
Mac Tiano, center field.
Tommy Malmes, left field.
Joe Hoffman, Zedany, catchers.
J. Brown and Jimmy Martin, pitchers.

Rourke's
Tony Debrosky, first base.
C. Bock, second base.

Eddie Burgevin, third base.
Chapple Van Dersze, shortstop.
Andy Celuch, right field.
Johnny Quast, center field.
Andy Celuch, right field.
Don Kelly and McElrath, catchers.
Charlie Neff and Leo Komosa, pitchers.

Will Reduce Waste, Knox Tells Farmers

Aboard Knox Campaign Train, Sept. 11 (AP).—Touring the cattle country for western votes, Col. Frank Knox, Republican vice presidential nominee, swung into Wyoming today, for a major address at Casper.

Knox toured South Dakota yesterday. He made six short talks from the rear platform of his train and two major addresses, one in Mitchell and the other at Rapid City.

Entering the "dust bowl" in western South Dakota, Knox assailed proposals to move some farm families, hard hit by drought, into other areas.

"You aren't quitter," he told railroad station crowds. Many of his listeners were farmers in overalls.

"There are those who will tell you your soil is exhausted," he said at Rapid City. "There are those who want to make a little America out of America. I tell you they are wrong. Agriculture is going to make a comeback."

Knox declared a "whispering campaign" was under way against the Republican presidential candidate, Gov. Alf M. Landon, to the effect that "relief will be kept down" if the Landon-Knox ticket wins.

"It is a monstrous slander on a decent, straight-shooting man," Knox said. "I'll tell you what will be reduced—waste and political use of relief money. Cut out the waste in government and there will still be plenty left for relief."

"We are not going to take relief away from the people that need it."

He said Gov. Landon planned to outline Republican farm policies at Minneapolis soon.

Col. Knox was made a member of the Tribe by Sioux Indians at Rapid City under the name of "Tananka Watakpé"—Chief Charging Buffalo.

State Republicans Drafting Platform

New York, Sept. 11. (AP).—A special committee of the Republican state committee and representatives of Republican members of the New York State senate and assembly met in Republican state headquarters today to prepare a tentative draft of a state platform.

The draft, in final shape, will be presented to the Republican state convention when it meets September 28 and 29 in Albany.

Among those who met today were Clarence R. King, chairman of the executive committee of the state committee, Irving M. Ives, speaker of the assembly, Oswald D. Heck, majority leader of the assembly, and State Senator Perley A. Pitcher.

GALLI-CURCI WILL BEGIN NEW CAREER

Chicago, Sept. 11 (AP).—Amelia Galli-Curci has won her great gamble.

She's going to sing again.

A year ago the golden voice of the renowned coloratura soprano was stifled by an operation to remove a polyp. Her friends feared it might never again thrill music lovers.

But last night Manager Paul Longone announced she had recovered and agreed to appear with the Chicago City Opera Company.

Her "new" career will begin November 17—20 years, almost to the day, after her sensational American debut at the Auditorium Theatre here.

Opening his 2,500 word address extemporaneously, he noted with a broad smile that "a rainbow shines in the sky" and termed the heavenly phenomenon a "fitting climax to two of the most delightful days I have ever spent in my life."

Governor J. C. B. Ehrinhaus, of North Carolina, presented him as the "Gideon of Democracy" and "Our Captain-Courageous." Others on the platform included Governors Dave Sholes of Florida; Olin D. Johnson of South Carolina; and Hill McAllister of Tennessee, and all the senators from those states and North Carolina except Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina.

Renewing Acquaintance

Officer John Carman of the New York city police department is spending a three weeks' vacation renewing acquaintance with his host of friends in Ulster county, making his headquarters at the home of Richard Hotelling in Port Ewen.

Formerly of High Falls, Officer Carman joined the Aqueduct Police force in 1910 and at the close of his service patrolling the Ashokan reservoir country was transferred to the city. He is located in Brooklyn, where he is doing inside work in the precinct which includes the Navy Yard and Wallabout Market. The officer dropped in at the sheriff's office Thursday night to pay his respects and in conversation remarked that he had known every sheriff back to the late George Young, who was sheriff from 1886 to '89.

Yacht Club Dance.

A dance will be held at the Roundout Yacht Club Saturday evening for the members and their guests. This event will close the social program for the season. All members are urged to be present.

NOTED HARMONICA PLAYER

HERE FOR A FEW DAYS

Clayton Hubbert, old minstrel harmonica player, is spending a few days
in Kingston after a successful summer season in the Catskill Mountain resorts. He was kept busy all season at the show places playing his harmonica. He is noted for his novelty act and can play the harmonica through his nose as well as his mouth.

He is an old timer at the game
and was formerly with the Guy
Brothers, Derue Brothers and Joe Gorton's minstrels. He is anxious to get a booking for a few nights
while in Kingston and promises to play for the night clubbers in an entertaining manner.

Maybe you believe you cook "by instinct"—some housewives with years of practice seem to do so. But that's not the way to make jelly.
Even the best of the "a little of this
and a pinch of that" cooks find it necessary to follow tested recipes carefully in order to make perfect jams and jellies.

Players' Guild Met
On Thursday Night

The Kingston Players Guild held their first meeting of the fall season
last evening at the Municipal Auditorium. After a short business session members were nominated for offices for the coming year. The Guild expects to produce six plays
during the fall and winter season.
The first one will be presented in about six weeks.

Those nominated for office last night were:

Ned Milliken, Mrs. Gertrude Helselman and Robert Flynn for president; Marion Farrell and Olga Vetoskie for vice-president; Robert Flynn and Harold Macholdt, secretary, and Stanworth Hancock and Marianne Price for treasurer.

An election will be held at the next meeting in two weeks.
At the close of the meeting a resolution was made to formally thank Miss Janet Evans, retiring president, for her efforts during the first season of the Guild.

Jap Destroyers
Bound for China

Shanghai, Sept. 11. (AP)—Four Japanese fighting vessels — three destroyers and one cruiser—arrived at Shanghai today from Tsingtau
en route to Hong Kong to guard
Japanese interests in South China.
Nipponese investigators into the reported killing of a Japanese resident of Paochow, meanwhile, were reported to arrive at the southern city
tonight.

Shigeru Kawagoe, Japanese ambassador to China, disclosed he had received instructions from Tokyo to "warn Nanking Japan will not tolerate further mob violence against Japanese residents of China."

ADJOURN JURY TRIAL
IN GILLETTE CASE

The jury trial scheduled for this evening before Justice of the Peace L. D. Sahler at Stone Ridge in the matter of The People vs. DuBois Gillette has been adjourned until Friday, September 18, because of the death of Mrs. Carrie M. Bruhn, mother of Attorney Louis G. Bruhn, who appeared for The People. Several adjournments have already been taken in the case at the request of defendant.

Attorney Gillette of Port Ewen is charged with leaving the scene of an accident. The charge grew out of an accident several weeks ago on the Kingston-Stone Ridge road.

MRS. C. S. WHITMAN TO SPEAK FOR ROOSEVELT

New York, Sept. 11 (AP)—Mrs.
Charles S. Whitman, wife of the former Republican governor of New York, prepared today to campaign

behalf of President Roosevelt.
Mrs. Whitman, a lifelong Republican, announced at Democratic Republican headquarters yesterday, she would vote for the President in November and would make several speeches for him during the campaign.
She said her husband knew of her decision to change her party alignment.
"He is very broadminded," she said.
